Book Borrowing. BY THOMAS HOOD.

How hard, when those who do not wish To lend—that's lose—their books, Arc snared by anglers—folks that fish With literary books,

Who call and take some favorite toms, But never read it through;
They thus complete their set at home
By making one at you.

I, of my Spenser quite bereft,
I ast winter sore was shaken;
Of Lams I've but a quarter left,
Nor could I save my I NON.

They picked my Locke, to me far table. Than Branan's patent worth; And now my losses I deplore, Without a Homeon earth.

E'en CLOVER'S Work I cannot put : My frozen hands upon;
Though ever since I lost my Foots,
My Bunyan has been gone.

My life is wasting fast away— I suffer from the abooks; And though I've fixed a lock on Gnay, There's gray upon my locks.

They still have made me slight returns, And thus my grief divide! For oh! they've cured me of my Bunns, And eased my Akenside.

Bui all I think I shall not say, Nor let my anger hurn:
For as they have not found me Gar,
They have not left me Sterne.
